A Constantinople dispatch Tuesday said permission to send vessels to Smyrna to take off the Christian refugees had been granted by Mustapha Kemal Pasha to the allied powers, the United States and Greece, but that males between the ages of fifteen to forty-five were excepted, and it was presumed the nationalists intended to use them for military purposes. A Smyrna message today declared Kemal had declined the request of the allies to permit Greek ships to remove refugees, pending his submission of the matter to Angora.

Wealthy Armenians and Greeks are leaving the city hastily, paying high prices for berths on westbound steamers. The panic is due mainly to fantastic reports circulated among the people and to exaggerated stories that they believe the flushing imment. It is understood here that the French cabinet warned the Angora government of the inadvisability of an assault on the neutral zone, but the nationalists are believed to have replied that the proposed attack is in the nature of a defensive and protective military preparations in support of her alleged policy of depriving Turkey of Thrace.

The Kemalists are in dangerous proximity to the neutral zone, and a forward movement on their part will meet with stern opposition from the people and to exaggerated stories people and to exaggerated stories about the Turkish attitude toward the civilian population of Smyrna.

CONSTANTINOPLE, September 20. Information that Mustapha Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for the possession of the Dardanelles, in spite of the exhortations of Gen. Pelle, French high commissioner, is causing undisguised anxiety in allied military circles in the capital.

The Turkish nationalist assembly at Angora, by an overwhelming majority, has extended the dictatorship of Mustpha Kemal Pasha, and has authorized him to continue the war until all the conditions prescribed in the national pact have been fully achieved.

These plans were made after frequent consultation with the District of the Capital Traction Company and representative citizens of the District and Virginia, and are said to be satisfactory to all parties concerned. Officials of the District government took a leading part in the preparation of the plans, for the reason that jurisdiction and control of the bridge, now held by the Secretary of War, will be transferred to them when the bridge is completed.

Informal canvasses of the Senate membership were said to have disclosed a line-up of thirty-four, or two more than the one-third necessary to sustain the veto. Two other senators were counted as doubtful. The expectation was that about fit teen-senators favorable to the bonus would be absent, with only three or four of the opponents away.
